Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Friday 05 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry.

Today:
A dry day with cloud breaking in places to allow some sunny intervals. One or two light showers are possible at first over Shetland and the Berwickshire coast. Light winds for most but a fresh west or northwesterly for Shetland.

Tonight:
Most places will stay dry and where skies clear a frost will develop. The Northern Isles could see a few showers.

Saturday:
The mainland generally dry with some sunny spells. Cloudier for the Isles with some patchy rain or showers.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday cloudier generally with occasional rain. This mostly dying out on Monday. Occasional rain on Tuesday, becoming heavy in northwest later where severe southerly gales will develop.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.